

We are organizing in Fairborn!

Greene County Connections, formerly Greene County Circles, has begun the process to launch the first Connections Community in Fairborn.

The first phase of the process has four objectives: establishing a Fairborn Core Group, hiring a coach, recruiting families and peers to join the Connections Community, and recruiting other volunteers.

The Fairborn Core Group

The function of the Core Group will be to identify community resources, determine how to best use those resources, galvanize community support, and provide input as we build the Fairborn Connections Community. People who are vested in Fairborn because it is the place where they live, work, and or worship have unique insight and knowledge about the community. Their insight and knowledge will shape our decision-making.

The Coach

The coach will be a paid consultant who will lead the recruitment campaign and will oversee the application and screening process for participants in the Fairborn Connections Community.

Families and Peers

The Connections Community helps families living in poverty become stable and self-sustaining. There is no magic—it is about relationships. The Connections Community focuses on helping people set and achieve goals through growing the five forms of personal capital: financial, intellectual, physical, relational, and spiritual. We match several volunteers, whom we call peers, that are already invested in the five forms of personal capital with a family motivated to break out of what often is multi-generational poverty. These intentional and reciprocal relationships provide support for families as they set and achieve goals through growing their investment in relational, financial, intellectual, physical, and spiritual capital.

Other Volunteers

The people of Greene County are generous and kind. Many are looking for opportunities to serve. Connections is seeking those individuals who share our commitment to ending poverty. There are many opportunities to share one's time, talent, and treasure to build Greene County's first Connections Community.

Connect with us: end poverty, change lives, change communities.

The Mission, The Vision

We change lives and change communities by ending poverty. Greene County Connections is a nonprofit organization funded primarily by private donations.

Our long-term vision is to make Connections accessible to everyone in Greene County.
